THEY ALL TOOK A CHANCE

Discussing President Wilson's course at the peace conference, the American Senate's attitude toward the treaty, and the "mischief wrought" by the lack of harmony or agreement between two coordinate branches of our government, the London Saturday Review makes this astonishing statement: "The misfortune was that neither M. Clemenceau nor Mr. Lloyd-George knew anything about the American Constitution or the state of parties in the United States."

If this were true, it would amount to a charge that Clemenceau and Lloyd-George were not qualified for the positions they occupied. Average Frenshmen or Ennglishmen can afford to be ignorant of American institutions and take a pride in their lack of knowledge of American affairs generally, as many Englishmen ostentatiously do, but it is the business of leading statesmen to be informed and they are informed. Undoubtedly both Clemenceau and Lloyd-George knew of the "consent of the Senate" provision of the Constitution, and they could not have failed to take note of the widely heralded election of an opposition Congress in November, 1918, although they may have attributed this in part to mid-term reaction. Lloyd-George must have reflected seriously upon this, he being well aware of the meaning of such an adverse election in his own country.

Undoubtedly the real truth is that not Wilson alone but Lloyd-George and Clemenceau also "took a chance," counting on the war enthusiasm to last long enough to carry the treaty through. It is quite possible, however, that not one of the three foresaw how suddenly the United States would drop from the war heights of enthusiasm and altruism.

THE CENSUS TAKERS

The census taker is at hand. Nearly ninety thousand men and women have taken the oath of office as enumerators and are going forth not only to count but to question all residents of this big country. They have sworn to canvass faithfully the districts allotted to them and report truly the answers to the prescribed questions. Not a few of the questions may seem unnecessary and some of them may even be regarded as annoyingly impertinent, but they should be answered truly and fully, with reliance on the oath of the enumerators to regard all information given them as confidential. Possibly more questions may be asked than are really desireable, and a less voluminous census requiring fewer years for its compilation, digestion and final publication, might be of greater practical value. But decision in this matter does not rest with the individual interviewed, and he should remember that the government's possession of complete and varied statistics may not only enrich history but contribute materially toward needed legislation. Moreover, the searching enquiry is duly provided for by act of Congress.

For a variety of reasons, therefore, it is wiser to help than to hinder the census takers. The more cheerful and prompt the answers the quicker an unavoidable business will be over. Obviously it would be useless as well as unjust for the questioned to visit any least part of their displeasure upon the individual census taker who has no soft job and who by the time he has made his tiresome rounds will have fully earned the Government's pay.

WHO BAILED JENKINS?

The Jenkins matter is not [illegible] neither is the possibility of trouble with Mexico. Just so long as [illegible] segregation of second-[illegible] artists and dreamers have control of the running of the government just so long will a grave danger of trouble with that country exist. Not all of the action taken or moves made from the White House or other high places within its shadow are of the "dream" type. The latest report to gain much publicity in Washington is thestory that early in the month of December the Mexican consulate in New York City said that President Wilson or Secretary Lansing paid the necessary bail money to get the American consular agent W. O. Jenkins out of the Puebla Mexica jail! This may simply be a trick on the part of the Mexican consulate to shift the blame to the President of the United States but it is also remembered that no one was mentioned at the time as the obliging party who furnished the necessary bail money. We will soon find out the truth, for the matter is to be the subject of further investigations by the sub-committee of the Senate foreign relations committee now inquiring into Mexican affairs.

The publication in Germany of formerly suppressed diplomatic papers has frightened the ex-Kaiser into the preparation of a defense, in which he says England was responsible for the war "because she refused to offer counsel of wisdom to France and Russia." Of course, it was long since established that counsel of wisdom was needed only by Germany and Austria; also that they received but rejected it when the British premier begged that the Teutonic armies ready to spring be held in leash until the nations could meet in pacific conference.

J. P. MUST HAVT "TURNED OVER

Jo Daniels recently honored John Paul Jones by requesting that a tablet be placed at the base of his monument in Washington. Unfortunately John Paul was not alive to refuse an honor which becomes invidious when presented by Mr. Daniels. It was a case of the founder of the American Navy being mocked at by the bounder of the American Navy.

No wonder the habit of lynching persists when three members are ready to stand up in the United States Senate—as Mr. Ashurst of Arizona, Mr. Myers of Montana and Mr. Fletcher of Florida did recently—and speak in favor of shooting down the reckless motorists who imperil life in Washington. The provocation was great but not to be compared with that which usually leads to lynchings.

An editorial in The Commoner, entitled "The Philistines Be Upon Thee," warns the country that the reactionary forces are preparing to spring into power and calls for a Samson to put them down. It is rather risky for a man of Mr. Bryan's record of countless words and no few errors of judgment to employ a metaphorical illustration that includes "the jaw-bone of an ass."

HIS TO KEEP

The Republicans in the Senate offered every possible compromise and the President rejected every offer, standing stubbornly by his extreme proposal to force America to what hecalled the "supreme sacrifice.' The responsibility is his.

REPORTED MURDER AT COKEBURG LAST NIGHT

A murder is reported to have occurred at Cokeburg last night, in which George Stetto, who lived in No. 9 house, while at a social gathering at house No. 87, was shot by two men. These two men, having handkerchiefs over their faces, entered the room where Stetto was and it is said shot him to death. County Detective McCleary is making an investigation of the shooting.

CHANGES BEING MADE AT HOTEL ARTHUR

The lower floor of the Hotel Arthur is being remodeled, the space formerly used by the office and the dining room being transformed into a store room. The dining room has been discontinued, but the bar is being run as usual. The office of the hotel has been moved to the second floor, and the hotel will continue to accommodate travelers with rooms and lodging, but not with meals.

WOMAN KILLED WHILE PICKING COAL NEAR TRACKS

Mrs. Matilda Miller, aged 37 years, was hit by a passenger train about 7:30 this morning near Elizabeth and instantly killed. She was picking coal along the tracks at the time of the accident. Se was the wife of Edward Miller, who with three children survive.

POLLYANNAS HOLD A DELIGHTFUL MEETING

Members of the Pollyanna club were delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Jennie Coulter, Fourth street and Washington avenue, Thursday evening. The time was devoted to fancy work and special business, at te conclusion of which a dainty lunch was served.

DEAD ARE MOUNTING GUARD

Soldiers Who Were Killed at Douaumont Still Thrust Their Bayonets Above Ground.

At Douaumont, France, Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Rouen and former bishop of Verdun, blessed the historic Tranchee des Fusils, the "Trenches of the Rifles," September 14. The ceremony occurred in the presence of General Valentin, commander of the forts and heights of the Meuse; of M. Robin, mayor of Verdun, and a delegation of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh regiment, according to Current History, New York Times.

The Trench of the Rifles lies behind a humble wooden cross erected near Douaumont, which is a shapeless mass of splintered rock, of barbed wire writhing as if in torment, of nameless litter, through which poppy and bramble tried to thrust upward during the summer. This cross overlooks the bloodiest battle field of the war. It was erected by men of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh regiment because close by their dead comrades are still mounting guard—there in the Tranchee des Fusils.

It was a small episode amidst a cataclysm and soon over. In half an hour the men of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh crept forth to mount guard, rifle on shoulder, bayonets fixed; there came a sudden, thunderous boom; the earth shuddered and cracked open, closed again, and swallowed up all. Thrusting above the ground, aligned as on that last march down the narrow trench that led to death, the bayonets of the section rise a bare six inches. It was the Trench of Rifles, and the dead heroes, still mounting guard below, that the cardinal blessed.

LAW AS TO COLOR BLINDNESS

Does Not Mean Loss of Sight, According to Ruling Made by Georgia Superior Court.

Color blindness does not mean total loss of sight in the meaning of the law, it was held recently by Judge John T. Pendleton in the motion division of Superior court at Atlanta, Ga.

Judge Pendleton's decision cleared a legal point raised only once before in the United States, so far as is shown by court records. This was in Nebraska, where both the lower court and the State Supreme court held that color blindness means total blindness.

The question was raised in a suit brought by George L. Fallin, who was a locomotive engineer for the Atlanta Joint Terminals, against the Locomotive Engineer Mutual Insurance and Accident association, a branch of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Engineer Fallin, it was set out, became color blind while engaged in his line of duty and was discharged from his position. He then applied to the engineers' association for his insurance—$1,500—for the loss of his eyesight, as stipulated in the policy. The association, however, declined to pay the amount on the ground that color blindness did not come within the terms of the policy concerning blindness. Fallin then brought suit in the courts through his counsel, City Attorney James L. Mayson.

Chinaman and His Queue.

On April 16 at what was once the village of Fanpoux I met a Chinese who was trying to grow a queue. It was only about a foot long and did not improve his appearance any. That day while out in the fields salvaging ammunition, his nose told him he was in the vicinity of some unsuccessfully buried foreigners. He was hardened by this time to all sorts of disagreeable things, but the incident went to the back of his head and only served to strengthen his belief that he should grow a queue. Foreigners wear their hair cut short. He had been in France going on two years and had long since concluded that he did not want to imitate them. Hence the queue.—World's Work.

Dantzig Rich in Memories.

The old fortress of Dantzig is rich in Napoleonic lore. It was here that the man of destiny failed to heed the admirations of a grand council of his marshals—Murat, Ney and the rest—that his star had passed perihelion; it was here that he upbraided them for having grown soft in prosperity, and for opposing the invasion of Russia; and it was from Dantzig that his legions "jumped off" for the ill-fated Moscow campaign.

In a later day Dantzig was the backmound and base for the northern bear of Mackensen's gray-green pincers that took Warsaw.

"But you have no field of honor in your country," said the French visitor.

"Oh, yes, we have," replied the American citizen.

"Oui?"

"Oui, oui. We have a field of honor with two goal posts at each end, and our husky young Americans take a delight in plowing it with their noses."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Her View.

Edith—I hear that Helen is to marry a rich man fifty years of age.

Agnes—How foolish! He is twenty-five years too old and twenty-five years too young.—Boston Transcript.

Isn't It the Truth?

When a woman asks you to be candid she expects you to be complimentary, just the same.—Boston Transcript.

STEAMER HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

The steamer Warren Elsey on the way down the river about 5 o'clock Friday evening, had a narrow escape from being swept over the dam at Lock No. 4 and wrecked.

The boat was on the way to Pittsburg with a heavily loaded tow of four steel barges, running through the ice at the time. While passing Charleroi a big cake of ice became wedged in the wheel, and the rudders "fouled," thus making it impossible to operate the machinery of the boat or move the wheel. In this position the boat and tow were floating down stream, not far from the dam, at the same time the steamer blowing a distress signal.

The Aliquippa, of the same line, on the way up stream, happened to be at Lock 4 at the time and immediately went to the rescue of the imperiled boat and landed the steamer and tow at the government boat yards. The boat had not been freed from the heavy cake of ice at noon today ,and it will take the assistance of another boat to right matters with the Elsey before she can proceed with her tow.

ICE RUNNING OUT OF MONONGAHELA

A rise of about fifteen feet of water out of the Cheat river, which reached Lock Four early last evening, is sweeping the ice out of the Monongahela, and will place the river in shape for navigation by Monday at least. The rains of Thursday night were much heavier at the headwaters of the river, which caused the water to rise quite rapidly, and start the heavy ice on its way down stream. A gasoline boat said to have been the Ethel, owned by Roscoe parties, was swept away from its moorings some time early this morning, and went over the dam at No. 4 about 6 o'clock. The boat was a complete wreck.

ENUMERATORS ARE HAVING THEIR TROUBLES

Census enumerators in Donora and Monongahela are reported as having a great deal of trouble in getting accurate data concerning foreign families. Under the ruling of the census department the enumerators are not permitted an interpreter and other means of getting information is uncertain.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Pass the Critical Period Safely and Comfortably by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Summit, N. J.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during Change of Life and I think it is a good remedy in such a condition. I could not digest my food and had much pain and burning in my stomach after meals. I could not sleep, had backache, and worst of all were the hot flashes. I saw in the papers about Vegetable Compound so I tried it. Now I feel all right and can work better. You have my permission to publish this letter."—VICTORIA KOPPL, 21 Oak Ridge Ave., Summit, N. J.

If you have warning symptoms such as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backache, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin taking the medicine at once. We know it will help you as it did Mrs. Koppl.

The Municipal Leg.

In a small town in Scotland the town clerk, who was a bit of a "character," had the misfortune to lose his leg in a railway accident. As a mark of appreciation and esteem for his long services the council unanimously agreed to replace his loss with an artificial limb, which they did as soon as he was sufficiently recovered. A few months afterward the same official, who was generally known by his Christian name, Paul, was unfortunate enough to have his other leg fractured in a trap accident. Naturally the mishap was the subject of much town gossip and one old wife, in discussing the matter with a neighbor, was overheard to say: "It's a gey bad business for Paul, puir man; but is it his ain leg or the leg that belongs to the toon that's broken?"

Not Impromptu.

The prosecuting counsel in a lawsuit had waxed especially indignant with the defendant, whom he characterized as "abandoned, baneful, cynical diabolic, execrable, felonious, greedy, hateful, irresponsible, jaundiced, knavish, lazy, meddlesome, noxious, outrageous and profligate." "My learned friend on the other side," said the counsel for the defendant, "should have put his adjectives in a hat and shaken them up a little before using. You must have noticed, gentlemen of the jury, that they were in regular alphabetical order. This shows that he selected them from a dictionary, beginning with 'a.' He stopped at p, but in his manner of reproducing them he has given up the 'cue' as to how he got them."

The Sistine Chapel.

What is most admirable about these colossal figures of prophets and sybils of the Sistine chapel—and this we can never weary of admiring—is that not only are they decorations of a hall, the adornments of a chapel, but men—men who have suffered our sorrows and experienced our disappointments; whom the thorns of earth have pierced; whose foreheads are furrowed by the wrinkles of doubt and whose hearts are transfixed by the chill of disenchantment.—Emilio Castelar.

SOLDIER LOSES A SUM OF MONEY

John Mazade of Lock Four, a member of the 18th Balloon Company, United States Army, stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, and who is home on a furlough, had the misfortune on Friday afternoon, to lose a $100 bill while on his way home from Monessen. He boarded the car leaving Monessen at 2 o'clock and it is his belief that when taking out his money to pay his fare that the bill was dropped. The car was crowded at the time, and if he did drop it, did not notice it. He discovered his loss when he reached this side of the river and after alighting from the car. If any one should find the money Mazade promises a reward. He has five months yet to serve in the army before he will be discharged.

MORE REDS TAKEN AT VESTABURG

The Buick Oiling System

The Buick Valve-in-Head Motor is Automatically Lubricated Thruout

The lubrication of the main bearings, wrest pin bearings, connecting rod bearings and pistons is a combination splash and pump system, with an oil presser gauge on the dash and a gauge on the crank case.

The oil pump is self-thawing and so constructed that should there be any water in the oil in cold weather causing the pump to freeze up, the self-thawing apparatus of the Buick oil pump will automatically thaw it out quickly, eliminating the possibility of injury to the pump.

MAKE BOATS WINTER HOMES

Londoners Partially Solve Housing Question by Living on the Thames Close to the City.

The housing question is being solved in a novel way between Thames Ditton and Hampton court. Unable to obtain a room occupants of houseboats are continuing to live in their floating homes, and in one backwater, 13 miles from London, houseboats are actually being built for winter occupation, London Answers states.

They are moored by a tree-sheltered bank. But you are too late to apply for them—they are all taken. One wonders what will happen when the floods begin.

Bungalows, which usually see no human soul save during the hot weather, are also finding winter tenants. A five-room bungalow on Thames Ditton island cost 25 shillings a week until April. There may be a few of these left. One is at present occupied by a demolished soldier, but whether he will find Thames mists easier to stand than Flanders mud remains to be seen. For the time being he is quite cheerful, however, and having sought a house in vain, does not cavil at having to start his journey to London each day by boat.

Our ideas change according to our necessities. It was stated the other day that a distracted man had applied to the government to let him a "pill box."

NEWFOUNDLAND RICH IN IRON

Enough Ore There to Supply the World for at Least a Century, if Not Longer.

Lord Morris in a lecture at St. John's Wood Presbyterian church, Marlborough place, London, described the development of Newfoundland for the last 400 years, "from the time of the early colonizers up to the day when that great captain of industry, Lord Northcliffe, established the great paper mills that are now supplying the Times, the Daily Mail, the Daily Mirror and the Sunday Pictorial with paper."

He said that in Newfoundland today there were many paper "propositions" quite as attractive, if properly developed, as that of Lord Northcliffe and his brother, Lord Rothermere.

There were also sufficient fish on the Newfoundland banks and along the Newfoundland and Labrador shores to feed the whole of the British empire. They had only touched the fringe of that great fishing industry in which lay the possibilities of cheap food for England.

Lord Morris drew an attractive picture of wonderful mineral possibilities, showing that Newfoundland was the second largest producer of iron in the British empire, England coming first. There was enough iron ore to supply all the needs of the British empire and of the world for the next hundred years.—London Mail.

Headlines and Hosiery.

Newspapers are said to be a comfortable covering for benchwarmers; but who ever heard of stockings made out of that material? As a matter of fact, the product that goes to make your favorite journal and artificial silk hosiery "that you can't tell from real" is exactly the same. You can now lay the dangers of deforestation at the door of the economical fair sex as well as the journalist tribe, for both stockings and wuxtries are made from wood pulp.

This last year 15 million pairs of silk stockings so made were exported from the United States—between two and three times as many as in 1918.

Manna Not Heavenly.

Strange to stumble upon a quotation about manna in news of the drug and chemical trades! The children of Israel, we know, were saved from starvation in the desert by it. It fell from heaven, was small like coriander seed, and tasted like wafers made with honey.

However, the actual manna of trade today comes from incisions in South European trees and it is now reported to have been quoted higher than previously in the primary market. The demand has increased of late, especially for small flake manna, which is the better quality, coming from the upper part of the stem of the tree.

Mr. Flutters—That plump, petite lady over there is my fiance, Miss Puddin. Don't you think that she has the face and figure of a goddess?

Professor Bonedigger—Now that you mention it, I think she has. I've been studying some old Aztec carvings and I consider the resemblance quite striking.

Prosaic Job.

"I thought that young officer looked pained when I began to expatiate on the glamor of war."

"You could not have chosen a topic that would have distressed him more."

"Why?"

"He commanded a labor battalion of Chinese coolies."—Birmingham Herald.

And They Call 'Em Trees.

The highest trees in northern Greenland are three inches tall. The trunk of an arctic willow 50 years old is less than half an inch in diameter.

Cynical Comment.

She—I wonder how the custom came up of giving brides away.

He—It is a queer one, considering marriage so often is such a sell.

LOCAL TEAMS LOSE OPENERS IN THE BASKET BALL LEAGUE

High Edged Out by Donora in a Close and Exciting Game

GIRLS' TEAM PLAYS GOOD GAME

On Friday night at Donora the Charleroi High school basket ball team was defeated by the Donora High team in a very bitterly contested game. The scores were almost even during the entire game and until almost the last few minutes of play, the final score was doubtful. At the end of the first half the score was 9-7 in Donora's favor, but Charleroi soon overcame this lead and led through most of the second half. The score was 21-21 near the end of the last quarter, and a foul called on the Charleroi team decided the game. Wagner was not at his best in foul shooting, only getting 7 out of 19 chances. The teams lined up as follows:

Charleroi—21		Donora—22
Wagner	F	Weiss
Watson	F	Hornbeck
Burnett	C	Schmidt
Webster	G	Hill
Brown	G	Rabe

Substitutions—Charleroi, Stevens for Watson.

Goals—Burnett, Watson, Stevens, Wagner 4. Fouls—Wagner 7 out of 19.

Donora—Goals—Weiss 5, Hornbeck, Schmidt. Fouls, Weiss 3 out of 13, Hill 5 out of 11. Referee—Beard. Scorers—Snyder and DeHaven.

The Charleroi girls' basket ball team played the Donora girls in the preliminary. The first half was almost even, the score being 3-2 in favor of Charleroi. In the second half Donora quickly overcame Charleroi's lead and when the final whistle blew they were 6 points ahead. The game was closer than the score shows, and the Charleroi girls made their opponents step lively. The line-up:

Charleroi—3		Donora—9
Parks	F	Siren
Lentz	F	Gallatin
Wilson	C	Walters
Sloan	G	Dainty
Speers	G	Gottbrath

Substitutions: Charleroi—Provins for Sloan. Donora: Siren for Walters. Goals—Parks. Siren 3. Fouls—Parks 1 out of 7; Siren 2 out of 10, Gallatin.

LOST HIS LIFE IN FLOW OF HOT METAL

Andrew Posey, aged 23, lost his life at the Donora open hearth on Wednesday, when he was caught in the ladle by a flow of hot metal. He was fixing the stopper, being at the time directly under the spout of the furnace. The spout broke through and the molten metal started to flow into the ladle. Posey tried to save himself, but he was unsuccessful.

Thomas J. Mangan, after spending the holidays at home in Charleroi, has returned to Bucknell University.

MUST HAVE LICENSE TO SELL ALCOHOLIC DRINKS

Attorney General William J. Schaffer on Friday in response to a request by Director James Fouts of the Bureau of Foods of the Department of Agriculture, gave an opinion that a license under the Brooks high license law is required for the sale of any beverage in the State of Pennsylvania that contains any per cent of alcohol, no matter how small. This same stand has taken by the Washington county courts several weeks ago.

MUST ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS ASKED

Arrests of persons who refuse to give enumerators information desired by the government will be made in a few days unless these persons show a disposition to answer questions. L. W. Liebert, supervisor of census in Western Pennsylvania, announced in Pittsburg on Friday. He said that persons arrested are liable to a fine of from $100 to $1,000 and from 10 days to a year's imprisonment.

The warning is the result of complaints made by enumerators that many persons refuse to answer their questions. Mr. Liebert announced that he has written letters to many of those who have refused to give the desired information. Many of the enumerators have threatened to resign, but Mr. Liebert said their resignations could not be accepted. He explained that they took an oath to go through to the finish when they took their jobs and that they cannot quit unless incapacitated by illness or injuries. There is a penalty for quitting he said.

TO OPEN A NAVAL RECRUITING STATION

R. C. VanGorder, Chief Gunner's Mate in the United States Navy, will open a naval recruiting office in the post office building at Monessen on Monday next. He was in Charleroi on Friday afternoon, placing some advertising posters, in order to let the young men of this community know that splendid opportunities are now open to them if they wish to join Uncle Sam's fleet, and by this means see something of the world. In addition men joining the navy are given opportunity to learn remunerative trades under expert mechanics, which will give them better opportunities for advancement or for remunerative employment. Mate Van Gorder also has a supply of Victory Buttons for men discharged from the Navy or from the Naval Reserve and all men of this discharges when applying for these buttons.

Says Husband Used Fraud in Securing Promise to Marry

Rather unusual facts are set forth in a libel in divorce just filed at Washington by Carolyn Gideon Jordan of Donora by Nellie Gideon, her mother and next friend, and against Thomas Jordan. The libellant is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gideon of Carmichael's, Greene county. Prior to and at the time the marriage of the libellant she was boarding and rooming at Donora. Prior to that time she had always lived with her parents in Greene county. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were married May 19, 1919, and at the time, it is averred, the libellant was just 16 years of age. It is set forth that the ceremony was performed without the consent and against the wishes of the parents of the libellant, and that the marriage was procured by fraud on the part of the respondent.

At the time Mrs. Jordan says she had no thought of getting married and had only known the respondent a few weeks. She further alleges that the respondent told her of a cousin of his who wished to be married, but that the man she wished to marry [illegible] She avers the respondent further told her that he and the other man had made a vow to be married at the same time.

These statements, it is averred, were false, and the respondent, in its illegal further making false averments, finally persuaded the libellant to marry him. She and the respondent went to Wellsburg, W. Va., where he made oath she was 22 years of age annd that no legal impediments existed that would prevent them from being married.

She avers that as soon as she was free from the influence of the respondent she refused to live with him and continually refused to live with him.

MONESSEN WILL ENFORCE ORDINANCE

Agents, stock promoters and speculators who have been disposing of gas and oil stock in Monessen during the past few weeks, when the craze struck this section of the valley, may run amuck of the law if they have not taken precautionary measures and secured a brokerage license as required by the borough ordinances of Monessen.

Burgess Stewart brought the ordinance to light Wednesday evening and it is thought that action will be taken against all stock salesmen who have failed to abide by it. According to theprovisions of this ordinance a license of $25.00 a year is required from all brokerage firms, but so far no one has taken the trouble to apply for such a license. A fine of not less than $5.00 nor more than $100.00 is liable to all violators of the ordinance and it is quite likely that there will be a sudden rush by oil and gas promoters to take out the necessary license in order that they may legitimately carry on their stock selling plan.

LOCK FOUR MAN IS CHOSEN BOROUGH ENGINEER

At the organization of the Donora borough council on Monday evening last, S. M. Carter of Lock Four was elected to the combined office of street commissioner and borough engineer. He entered upon his new duties at once.

BRINGING HOME 15 AUTOMOBILES

V. E. Reeves, in charge of a party of fourteen auto drivers, assembled from Monongahela, Donora and Charleroi, is on the way home from Flint, Michigan, with fifteen Buick touring cars. The party left for the west Tuesday night, and started from the factories at Flint at noon Wednesday with the cars. The party drove for two days in snow varying in depth from 12 to 18 inches, and arrived at Youngstown, Ohio, Friday evening at 7 o'clock. They left there this morning and are expected to arrive in Charleroi this evening. The cars are for the Spencer Garage, which adopted this means of getting them east in preference to having them shipped by freight.

HOME DESTROYED AND TWO CHILDREN LOST

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Coldren, Martha Ann aged 18 months, and John Wilbur, aged three years, were cremated when their home near brownsville was destroyed by fire late Friday afternoon. The cause of the fire was not learned. Coroner Baum, who made a search of the premises, said he found no trace of the bodies. According to the report of the coroner the parents were down town shopping when the fire occurred. The children were in the care of a neighbor who had just left them for a few minutes before the fire was discovered, the report said.

Rev. Mrs. Wilson Reed will preach at the Christian church Sunday evening 7:30. Your are invited to hear her. 183-t2

MANY CHANGES ARE BEING PLANNED AT THE COURT HOUSE

Creation of New Court Compels Rearrangement of Offices

SOME DETAILS NOT COMPLETED

Some changes are being made on the court room floor of the court house at Washington in order to provide suitable quarters for Judges H. E. Hughes of the newly created orphans' court. The two rooms to the north of Judge James I. Brownson's chambers, at the southeast corner of the court house will be turned over to the orphans' court. One of these rooms has been used for a long time as a ladies' waiting room, and the other as the offices of the juvenile court.

The offices of the juvenile court were moved on Friday from their present quarters to the large room, known as grand jury room No. 1 court room, and located at the northwest corner of the court house. It is off the rear of the same corridor on which the offices of the probation officer of the court is located. The room is just west of court room No. 1.

Judge McIlvaine, who approved the changes, states that when he sat during grand jury week he could do so in court room No. 2, or Judge Brownson's room, and use the grand jury room attached to the No. 2 court room.

Another change necessitated by the taking over of the orphans' court business by the register and ex-officio clerk of the orphans' court, John Aiken, is the moving of the register and clerk of the orphans' court to the room that has always been occupied by the clerk of courts. The office of the clerk of courts will be moved to what has been the register's office. This office was too small to accommodate the business of the register and clerk of the orphans' court, hence the change.

A further change will be made which will give the coroner his own office, but just what it will be has not been decided. The commissioners will provide another place for the ladies' waiting room, since the room used for that purpose has been turned over to the orphans' court.

WILL ASK FOR BIG SUM FOR NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

It is probable that the school district of the borough of Donora will ask the voters of that town to approve a bond issue of $175,000, from the proceeds of which a new high school building will be erected during the coming summer, if the issue is approved. In conferring with the members of the board, Mr. Compton, the architect told them he had been informed that bricklayers in this district will ask $1.02 per hour after the first of May.

DAYLIGHT SAVING MAY BE RENEWED

Monessen, along with a large number of other communities, has taken steps to renew daylight saving during the summer months. The initial action was taken Wednesdty evening at the meeting of the borough council, when Burgess Stewart brought the matter to the attention of council and asked that they consider it carefully, as Pittsburg and many of the leading cities of the east have already taken favorable action. Congress at a recent session revoked the daylight saving law, but many communities which enjoyed its benefits while it was in force, have taken it upon themselves to reinstate it and it is quite likely that Monessen will follow suit. The time for the change has been made much shorter opening on April 25 and closing on September 26.

JUSTICES TO MEET IN CONVENTION

Members of the Justices and Alderman's Association of Washington county will hold their annual meeting room of thecourt house at Washington, on Monday, January 19. The opening session will convene at 10:45 o'clock in the morning. Members of the Washington County Bar Association will be present to deliver addresses on subjects of interest to the aldermen and justices of the peace and also to answer questions on points which may be raised.

Justice John P. Carmichael of Washington is president of the county association and Justice J. N. McDowell of Buffalo township is secretary. Officers of the association are urging all members to attend the meeting.

Henry Burmys.

Henry Burmys, son of Mr. and Mrs Albert Burmys, died at the home of his parents, 834 Oakland avenue, Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, aged 10 years. Funeral service swill be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Charleroi cemetery.

COULSON NOT A DEPUTY SHERIFF

R. J. Coulson, of Donora, will not become a deputy sheriff, in this county, despite published reports that he would. Mr. Coulson will not give up his residence in Donora and expects to enter the insurance business. At the proper time he contemplates becoming a candidate for borough tax collector, in which he will have strong backing.

The mere announcement that Rev. Mrs. Wilson Reed will preach at the Christian church Sunday evening should bring out a good attendance. 183-t2
